INFO:

Spielpermar Spielparmid, the second album from Irish duo Jung Turks, follows their 'wilfully obtuse, complex, bewildering beast*' debut Liber Eth. SS finds the band continuing to pursue a singular path, exploring more primal colours and forms. The result is a powerful, pulsating and terrifically textured work - according to the band 'a dance record for people who can't dance'.

Recorded at The Bunker, Scottsdale [Dec 02-05 '10] & The Coalshed, Killucan [Winter '11/12], mastered by renowned musician/producer James Plotkin (Phantomsmasher, Khanate, Ipecac Recordings).

Spielpermar Spielparmid is released through Cējäipha and is available on Free Download, Ecowallet CD and a handful of Deluxe Edition Leather bound laser-etched acetal art-plates packages. Visit jungturks.com for details.

PRESS QUOTES:

'Jung Turks approach is unlike any other...a strange and wonderful beast'
Kernan Andrews, Galway Advertiser

'With just classical guitar and drums for comfort, Jung Turks sound like the offspring of the White Stripes and Rodrigo y Gabriela; lost musical children who were reared in a South American gypsy camp by former Faith No More guitarist Jim Martin and Slayer drummer Dave Lombardo, before being sent to boot camp with Frank Zappa, who in turn sent them to the bog where they dug turf and fusion music.'
Ronan Casey, Westmeath Examiner

'Jung Turks are something special; they combine their superb musicianship with an eclectic mix of genres to create intricate and highly original music'
Aidan Curran, Irishrockers.com
